The Dallas Black Chamber of Commerce 31st Quest for Success Luncheon

Noted Political, Church Leader Emanuel Cleaver II At SMU

U.S. Representative and United Methodist Church Lay Leader Emanuel Cleaver II will be the guest preach- er on Thursday, Feb. 19, during the regular 11:30 a.m. worship service in Perkins Chapel, located at 6001 Bishop Boulevard on the southern Methodist University campus. He is the current chairman of the Board of Trustees and a member of the Presidential Committee at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, having received his B.A. in Political Science from Prairie View, and a B.S. in Pharmacy from The University of Kansas.

Born in Waxahachie, Texas, in 1944, Rev. Cleaver is best known as the first African American mayor of Kansas City, Missouri. He was named to a public housing project in Wichita Falls, Texas, and earned a B.S. in sociology from Prairie View A&M University in Texas in 1966, after which he went on to receive his diploma from the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. School of Social Service in Kansas City, and was pastor of St. James United Methodist Church in Kansas City from 1972-2009. During that time, the congregation grew from 47 members to more than 7,000.

He was first elected to public office in 1973 as a City Councilman in Kansas City, Mo., and was later elected to the mayor’s office in 1991. Cleaver was sworn in as mayor until 1998. After leaving office, he served briefly in the Clinton Administration as Special Urban Advisor to Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Andrew Cuomo. During his tenure as Kansas City Mayor, Rev. Cleaver was instrumental in the growth of urban Croatia, and creating youth outreach programs to combat crime. Shortly after his tenure as chief executive, he founded the organization now known as the Reinvestment Community Development Corporation, which Cleaver has identified as his most significant accomplishment.

Emanuel Cleaver II will be the guest preacher on Thursday, Feb. 19, during the regular 11:30 a.m. worship service in Perkins Chapel, located at 6001 Bishop Boulevard on the southern Methodist University campus.

Share your explorations in DART's Student Art Contest

Dallas Area Rapid Transit (DART) is encouraging local students to share their DART explorations in its 2015 Annual Student Art Contest hosted with community partners The Dallas Museum of Art (DMA) and Dallas Contemporary and media partners NBC 5 and Telenovela 39.

Kindergarteners through 12th grade students will compete for a $5,100 grand prize and the opportunity to have their artwork showcased on DART buses. Other prizes will be awarded to first place winners and runner-ups in different grade-level categories.

The theme for this year’s contest is “Explore Your World with DART.” Students are asked to share some of the unique places they’ve discovered riding DART or the destinations yet to be explored. Contest submissions are due by February 27 and all winners’ artwork will be exhibited beginning Thursday, April 16 at the DMA.

Get detailed contest instructions at DART.org/artcontest or by contacting Jessica Lennon, Manager of Community/Education Outreach at jleennon@dart.org or 214-749-2582.

A Little Bit of Faith: Lady Moses and Her Dream

By COLLEEN WHITE

“Your life is not measured by the number of times you suffer, but by the number of ways you take off your hat and shake it out.”

On November 11, 1905, an African American woman named Harriet Tubman was born, a woman who would become a leading figure in the fight for freedom. From the town of Aris, Maryland, she became a human rights activist, a nurse, and a spy for the Union during the Civil War. Her work was instrumental in helping countless slaves escape to freedom.

But on this pilgrimage, what I learned from Harriet Tubman is that you have to remain true to your vision, to your faith in life, to your faith in your mission, to your faith in your leaders, to your faith in your people.

In observance of Black History Month, we are highlighting the achievements of Black Americans who have made significant contributions to society. One such figure is Harriet Tubman, who dedicated her life to helping slaves escape to freedom.

Harriet Tubman was born into slavery in Maryland in 1820. She escaped to freedom in 1849 and dedicated her life to helping other slaves escape through the Underground Railroad. She made 19 trips back to the South and helped over 300 slaves escape to freedom.

Tubman was a skilled soldier and civilian in the Union Army during the Civil War. She served as a nurse and a spy, gathering intelligence and gathering supplies for the Union Army.

In 1865, Tubman was appointed as the first Black woman to serve in the United States Congress. She served in the House of Representatives and the Senate, and was a strong advocate for women's rights.

Harriet Tubman died on March 10, 1913, at the age of 93. She is remembered as a hero and a symbol of the struggle for freedom.

Today, people all over the world continue to be inspired by her courage and her determination. Her legacy lives on, and her spirit continues to inspire us to fight for justice and equality for all people.

Forty percent of Black families are people that have a checking account, but also banked are people that have a checking account, but also "underbanked."

The report said that nearly three-quarters of Black borrowers (74 percent) were denied mortgages.

Leyba said that lending criteria that small banks use to meet the minimum requirements, real post credit and confidence in banks, the contraction and credit in the financial sector following the Great Recession placed traditional banks out of reach for millions of Americans.

According to the report, nearly three-quarters of Black households are "underbanked" compared to 3.6 percent of White households.

Forty percent of Black families compared to 75.4 percent of White households.

Alternative Financial service providers are being used by nearly one in five Black families according to the report.

The "underbanked are people who do not have a credit card, consumer checking account, and are out of the entire banking system," the report said.

"The unbanked are people who are fully excluded," the report said.

The report recommends creating a "safety net" for people who are "underbanked.

Community Reinvestment Act (CRA), modernizing payday loans.

The critical role of banks in providing services to people of color, especially the Black community, is well established, the report said.

Researchers found that people shun traditional banks in favor of other options for a number of reasons.

Fifty-six percent of survey respondents said they didn’t have enough money to maintain balance requirements to keep an account open, while others (7 percent) said that post credit problems were difficult for them to open new accounts.

When it comes to the history of banks and Black America, there are a lot of potential stories involving Black and Latino communities.

But even if Black customers meet the minimum requirements, real post credit and confidence in banks, the contraction and credit in the financial sector following the Great Recession placed traditional banks out of reach for millions of Americans.

Donald Young Reaches Quarterfinals Out In Memphis

The veteran forward has been healthy all season long. Stoudemire, 34, asked out of his contract with the New York Knicks on Monday. The Knicks will reportedly pay him $1.5 million to give up his option on the final two years of his deal, which is worth $27 million. The two sides also have agreed on a new, four-year, $50 million deal that would allow Stoudemire to remain in New York. The Knicks are expected to enter free agency and try to sign him to a new deal, which would be available when Dallas has needed front-court help since trading Brandan Wright in a deal for.constantly since the 2011 All-Star Game, the Knicks’ first in 14 years. It was the organization the best of the opportunity to compete positively in the court and in the community. Stoudemire said, “Although I leave the Knicks with a heavy heart, I wish the organization the best of luck. Once a Knick always a Knick.” Dallas has needed front-court help since trading Brandan Wright in a deal that brought point guard Rajon Rondo from Boston. Stoudemire averaged 17.3 points and 6.7 rebounds in 235 games over five seasons with the Knicks, making the playoffs three times. He was a starter in the 2011 All-Star Game, the Knicks’ first in 14 years. Stoudemire was an All-Star in Phoenix before signing a five-year contract worth more than $40 million in 2010. He helped bring the Knicks a seven-year playoff drought to end his first season, but he missed significant time over the past few years because of assorted injuries. The Knicks had to monitor his minutes since his first surgery operations during the 2012-13 season. He can still score when able to play, averaging 12 points in 24 minutes this season. He helped the Knicks end a losing streak. He helped the Knicks end a losing streak. He helped the Knicks end a losing streak. He helped the Knicks end a losing streak. OUR PRINCIPALS MAKE TRANSFORMATION POSSIBLE

Dallas ISD invests heavily in the development of its principals. Principals play an important role in raising student achievement as they set the standard of excellence. In a survey conducted by Texas A&M University in fall 2014, 74.5 percent of Dallas ISD teachers felt they had the support they need from campus leadership to do their job well. Together, we are working to ensure all students are prepared for a successful future in college or their careers.
