The Grand Jury In Ferguson Declined To Indict Police Officer Darren Wilson for the death of Michael Brown

Following the decision by the St. Louis County grand jury in the investigation of the fatal shooting of Michael Brown, an unarmed African American teenager shot by police officer Darren Wilson in Ferguson, Missouri, a coalition of national civil and human rights groups issued the following joint statement:

National civil and human rights organizations and community leaders expressed disappointment at today's announcement by the St. Louis County grand jury not to indict Officer Darren Wilson for the wrongful shooting death of Michael Brown. This decision is a failure by St. Louis County in securing justice for Michael Brown and his family.

The act of injustice seen in the killing of unarmed African American teenager Michael Brown and the collapse of the justice system have struck our community to its core. Brown's slaying and the resulting mistreatment of protestors in Ferguson, MO has brought to light the larger issue of police brutality and the need for critical police reforms, including de-militarization; community-based policing; mandatory racial bias and sensitivity training for all law enforcement personnel; and full accountability in Ferguson and nationwide. It also underscores the structural factors that have led to white political dominance in the city of Ferguson, contributing to racial inequalities in socio-economic access for African-Americans, which pre-date the shooting of Michael Brown.

Statements on Grand Jury Decision in Ferguson, MO about the Killing of Michael Brown: Today's announcement that the Grand Jury decided not to indict Ferguson, MO Police Officer Darren Wilson who killed unarmed 18 year-old Michael Brown in August 2014 is yet another systematic and tragic slap in the face of equal justice in the United States. On behalf of the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA), today our prayers and solidarity are first resolutely with the parents and family of young Michael Brown as well as concern for everyone in the Black American community and all people of good will in St. Louis County, Missouri. I have personally spoken directly to two of our NNPA member publishers who publish in the St. Louis area: Donald M. Suggs of the St. Louis American and Michael C. Williams of the St. Louis Metro Sentinel. We discussed the tense situation in Ferguson. We are the "Voice of the Black Community" and the NNPA will not be silent or rest until there is justice in the Michael Brown case and other cases of racially-motivated police killings and violence in our communities across the nation. - NNPA President, Dr. Benjamin F. Chavis, Jr.

"THE PSALMIST'S PLEA FOR JUSTICE" PSALM 83:1-18

The psalmist, Asaph, is lamenting earnestly for the Lord to execute justice. Judah is bombarded about with enemies, and Asaph is asking for God's help. In a similar fashion, Asaph appealed for mercy in behalf of his people, for Psalm 79:5, 8-9 says: "How long, LORD? wilt thou be angry for ever? shall thy jealousy burn like fire? O remember not against us former iniquities: let thy tender mercies speedily prevent us: for we are brought very low. "Help us, O God of our salvation, for the glory of thy name: and deliver us, and purge away our sins, for thy name's sake." We need God's mercy every moment of our existence, especially during our crisis moments. Would you agree with me? When you are in trouble, you need to find perfect comfort in the Rock, the source of your strength, for Psalm 18:1-2 says: "I will love thee, O LORD, my strength. The LORD is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower." In verses 1-8, the psalmist in distress calls upon God to help Judah because their enemies plotted to decimate them. He pleads to God, "Keep not thou silence, O God: hold not thy peace, and be not still, O God" (v. 1). These enemies were even against God Himself as Asaph relates in verse 2, "For, lo, thine enemies make a tumult: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head. These numerous enemies were against God and His people. As God used His power in His past victories over the nation's enemies, Asaph is appealing for Him to do so now (vv. 9-16). In verses 15 and 16 he states, "So persecute them with thy tempest, and make them afraid with thy storm. Fill their faces with shame; that they may seek thy name, O LORD." The psalmist concludes with an appeal for God to destroy and put to shame the enemies of Judah so that God's name be revered: "Let them be confounded and troubled for ever; yea, let them be put to shame, and perish: That men may know that thou, whose name alone is JEHOVAH, art the most high over all the earth" (vv. 17-18). May God Bless!

Marching to Freedom on a Treadmill

Here's a sobering statement from Economic Policy Institute (EPI): "Fifty years ago (2013), the unemployment rate was 5% for Whites and 10.9% for Blacks. Today, it is 6.6% for Whites and 12.6% for Blacks." Can you believe that? We are at the same relative position now as we were when MLK gave his famous "I Have a Dream" speech in 1963. Part of the problem is that we have been waiting to be rescued rather than doing everything we can to rescue ourselves. Employment is very high on the fictional Black agenda, so much so that during our protests we have to say it three times: Jobs! Jobs! Jobs! While we have certainly protested and begged for jobs from politicians, our tepid and passive solutions have not moved us one inch toward our goal of lowering the Black rate of unemployment. Why? The last march for jobs was called three years ago by Marcher-in-Chief Al Sharpton during the run-up to the 2012 presidential election. Sharpton, who was flanked by leaders of the National Education Association, NAACP, and other groups, was quoted in the Washington Post as saying, "We will bring forth the masses who have not been heard in the midst of the jobs debate...As the president fights for a jobs act, as super-committees meet, they need to hear 'marching feet.' This is to send a message to Congress." Marching feet? Congress must have had earplugs on that day. If they did get the message, they did nothing to improve the situation two years later, according to the EPI report. Many of our marches have been tantamount to walking on a treadmill, burning energy but not permanently moving forward. Sharpton went on to say, "The march, which will count on the large ranks of union members, will bring 'drama' to the jobs debate. His use of the word, 'drama' reminds me of what John Henrik Clarke said about Sharpton during a debate with Cornell West at Ohio State University. Clarke stated, "We have to make a distinction between these academic vaudeville shows and those who give us knowledge. We cannot accept the performers as fighting for our liberation. We can enjoy the performance, but don't think it moves us forward, except the bank account of the performer. I like Al Sharpton personally because he is something that is useful; he is an alarmist. An alarmist solves no problem; he will call attention to it and won't let us leave the agenda until someone else solves the problem. So [alarmists] serve a purpose with their big mouths...Alarmists won't let you sleep." All we get, and unfortunately settle for, is "drama" when it comes to solving our problems. We love to march and make symbolic statements, but we stop there; we never follow up with appropriate action. This is why I propose that we gather 1 million or more conscious Black people who are willing to do several things in response to the problems we face in this country. We must have people who are willing to pool their votes and their dollars to build and grow businesses. We must elect politicians who, prior to an election, will state very clearly and publicly, their commitment to fight for issues specific to Black people, just as other groups get politicians for whom they vote to support and fight for their issues. A collective of 1 million conscious Black people could positively affect the jobs issue by forming an equity or loan fund to establish more Black businesses. We could also help grow those businesses by collectively supporting them with our consumer dollars, thereby, creating jobs and lowering the Black unemployment rate. One million conscious Black voters could leverage our votes to help elect the politicians who will work in our best interests, no matter what color their skin is, what party they belong to, or what political label they wear. It's all about interests, not parties or skin color. A national group of 1 million could also stimulate the formation of local coalitions to accomplish the same goals in cities across this nation. No more need to go to Washington and march about something we can do right in our own backyards. No more spending our money, the majority of which goes to non-Black businesses, to travel distances to "protest" and create "drama" around issues we can solve ourselves. Enough of that nonsense! We must coalesce around efforts that make sense, efforts that are practical and beneficial, and efforts that will get us off the treadmill and keep us from marching in place for the next fifty years. Join the one million conscious voters, and let's start solving our own problems and creating our own jobs, with our own dollars.

A Little Bit of Faith: Storms Will Come

Do you sometimes feel as if your life is one big movie? There is always some kind of drama in your life. Perhaps you are just coming out of a storm and you're thankful that you make it onto the other side.

Yet, you are beginning to see another storm slowly moving in your direction. What do you do? In all of our lives we are either in a storm or coming out of a storm or going back into another storm. And sometimes storms can come in several waves. This is difficult. These types of storms can test our faith. We may feel as if God no longer cares for us. Or we may begin to think that we are not really walking with God because we have had or have so many storms in our lives.

However, just because we are followers of Christ does not mean that our faith won't be tested. In 1 Peter it says, "Beloved, do not think it strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you," (1 Peter 4:12). Peter was telling the early Christians that they should not find it odd that they will have trials and tribulations. This is part of the Christian walk. Nevertheless, we are human. Since we are human, we do not want to go through any difficult situations. We want our lives to be calm and have smooth sailing. So whenever we are in a trial for a long time, we might feel as though God has forgotten us. In the book of Psalm it says, "How long, O Lord? Will You forget me forever?" (Psalm 13:1). If you're in a storm, coming out of a storm, or about to go into another storm, keep the faith and know that God is with you. You can find rest in Him. "My soul trusts in You; and in the shadow of Your wings I will make my refuge," (Psalm 57:1). Amen? Amen.

Why Blacks Should Support Immigration Reform

As I watched President Barack Obama address the nation on his "controversial" Executive Order on immigration reform, I was reminded of the evening that I was inside Riverside Church in New York City on April 4, 1967 when Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr gave his courageous sermon in opposition to the Vietnam War. Even some of the supporters of Dr.

King questioned his theological audacity to link civil rights injustice in the United States to human rights injustice in Vietnam. Decades later, history has proven Dr. King to have been right in his vocal opposition to the Vietnam War. What will history say 50 years from now about President Obama's leadership on immigration and his determination to fix the system? Leadership is about speaking out against injustice. But it is also about taking action to correct injustice. Civil rights leadership, as exemplified by Dr. King, was audacious with the courage to take action to challenge injustice in a manner that inspired millions of people to join the cause. In his Riverside Church speech, Dr. King stated, "An injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere." I know that there are many in the Black American community who might not understand how the issue of immigration for Latino Americans and others is linked to the issues of racial and economic justice for Black Americans. The goals of racial equality and economic empowerment are not exclusive or limited to Black Americans. With the "browning of America" steadily changing the racial and ethnic demographics of the population of the U.S., it important for Black Americans to be supportive of immigration reform. We should be in solidarity with our Latino sisters and brothers because it is the moral and right thing to do. Also, supporting immigration fairness and equal justice is a strategic step forward for Black America. We know what the sting and pain of racial prejudice and injustice feels like. The political context and timing of President Obama's executive action that will help possibly 5 million or more Latino and other undocumented people who have lived in the U.S. for at least the past five years should not be underestimated. This was a major leadership move by the nation's first Black president. Like health care reform, immigration reform had been debated for decades without any significant progress until this president made it happen. Yes, there is going to be a big political fight over immigration. Black Americans should weigh in on this debate from an activist perspective rather than from the position of disinterested spectators. As President Obama affirmed, "What makes us Americans is our shared commitment to an ideal, that all of us are created equal, and all of us have the chance to make of our lives what we will." Equality in a democracy where are people are treated fairly and justly is a moral and noble goal that we all should strive to attain. Yet for 45 million Black Americans, we also know the bitter taste of centuries of oppression, discrimination, injustice, violence and racial hatred. In fact it is because of our ongoing struggle for freedom, justice and equality that still continues to this day is the reason why we cannot afford to be silent on the issue of immigration equal justice. I am prepared to stand with the president of the United States on this matter. Are you? Benjamin F. The Grand Jury In Ferguson Declined To Indict Police Officer Darren Wilson For The death of Michael Brown

"My heart continues to go out to Michael Brown's family and community. I am beyond disappointed in today's verdict. Like everyone in our community, I am devastated by the senseless murder of yet another young black man. The deaths of Michael Brown, Trayvon Martin and Oscar Grant, one of my constituents, serve as tragic examples of the senseless murder of young African American men. I urge protesters to be peaceful and for the police to respect people exercising their First Amendment rights. We must come together like never before to tackle the systemic, structural and rampant racial bias endemic in our institutions and criminal justice system. We must demand change and work to realize it." - Congresswoman Barbara Lee

"Once again, our hearts go out to the family of Michael Brown who tragically lost his life much too soon, as well as to the entire Ferguson community, which has endured the consequences of this event and its aftermath. The nation's mayors strongly believe that there should have been open court proceedings in the case of the officer-involved shooting of Michael Brown so that the evidence could have been presented in a public forum, and a verdict could have been rendered by a jury. We hope that prosecuting attorney Robert McCulloch will release the full transcript and audio proceedings of the Grand Jury as he promised in September. This will ensure that Michael Brown's family, as well as the community and the American public will have a greater understanding of what happened on August 9. As leaders of cities across the country, we are committed to working with our communities to ensure that this tragedy is never repeated. "There is an understandable feeling of discontent in the community, and there will no doubt be protests. Our hope is that any demonstrations that occur will be peaceful and nonviolent so that we can begin to heal from this difficult time." - Sacramento Mayor Kevin Johnson

"The NAACP stands with citizens and communities who are deeply disappointed that the grand jury did not indict Darren Wilson for the tragic death of Michael Brown, Jr. We stand committed to continue our fight against racial profiling, police brutality and the militarization of local authorities. The death of Michael Brown and actions by the Ferguson Police Department is a distressing symptom of the untested and overaggressive policing culture that has become commonplace in communities of color all across the country. We will remain steadfast in our fight to pass the End Racial Profiling federal legislation. And we stand in solidarity with peaceful protesters and uphold that their civil rights not be violated as both demonstrators and authorities observe the "rules of engagement." The grand jury's decision does not mean a crime was not committed in Ferguson, Missouri, nor does it mean we are done fighting for Michael Brown, Jr. At this difficult hour, we commend the courage and commitment of Michael Brown's family, as well as local and national coalition partners." - From Cornell William Brooks, NAACP President and CEO

"The Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law is troubled by the grand jury decision today. Although not deterred, the Lawyers' Committee will continue to work with legal and community partners to seek justice for Michael Brown and his family, and work on ensuring that systemic change is brought in Ferguson and nationwide to address excessive force by law enforcement against people of color, particularly African American youth, who are routinely targeted by law enforcement." - Barbara R. Arnwine, President and Executive Director, Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law

"The National Coalition on Black Civic Participation and Black Women's Roundtable are seriously troubled by the grand jury's decision not to indict Darren Wilson for the violent and senseless killing of Michael Brown. It's been a long road traveled in the civil rights movement, but the slaying of Michael Brown, followed by this decision, makes it clear that we can't take off our marching shoes yet. We've got to keep the movement moving until justice like this is only heard about in the history books. We pray for Michael Brown's family and urge the public to engage in peaceful protests." - Melanie L. Campbell, President and CEO, National Coalition on Black Civic Participation and convener, Black Women's Roundtable

"Today's announcement makes clear that the systemic bias and dysfunction in our justice system that led to Michael Brown's death extends all the way to the courthouse. We send our condolences to the Brown family and the community of Ferguson for today's announcement that there would be no justice for this shooting death or the wounds it inflicted on the community. We will continue to partner with law enforcement at all levels to correct the systemic bias that exists at every juncture of our justice system and causes young men of color to be killed or unjustly targeted and subject to heavy-handed sentencing." - Wade Henderson, President and CEO of The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights

"We are deeply disappointed with the grand jury's failure to indict police officer Darren Wilson for the fatal shooting of unarmed teenager Michael Brown. The tragedy of Mr. Brown's death at the hands of Officer Wilson, as well as the overwrought, often unconstitutional and overly-militarized response to protests in Ferguson are harsh and painful reminders of the work that we all must undertake to fulfill America's promises of racial equality and justice." - Sherrilyn Ifill, NAACP Legal Defense Fund, President, Director-Counsel

"Today's decision by the grand jury to not indict Officer Darren Wilson in the horrific killing of Michael Brown is disappointing, but not the end to the struggle for justice. Now more than ever, it is critical for the U.S. Department of Justice to take a leading role in changing policies that allow the police to target innocent people and engage in brutality against Americans. Michael Brown was an unarmed African American with his entire life ahead of him, and we must honor his legacy by continuing the fight against racial profiling and excessive use of force." - Farhana Khera, Executive Director, Muslim Advocates

"The National Bar Association is disappointed, yet not discouraged by the Grand Jury's decision not to indict officer Darren Wilson. The message sent to this country today is that it's okay to shoot and kill an unarmed individual of color. The problems with police brutality is nothing new but the combined efforts of the civil rights organization is something this country has not seen in a very long time. With the combined efforts and the manpower of the National Bar Association, we plan to keep our sleeves rolled up until there is change." - Pamela Meanes, President of the National Bar Association

The famed tennis sisters attended the entire evening of fun, fund raising and renovation celebration, which was emceed by James "JB" Brown, the well-known major network television broadcaster.

"The support of Venus and Serena is something that has been a driving force behind the success of the Center from day one," said Cora Masters Barry, president and founder of the RWLC. "We are privileged to be able to honor them with the naming of the new tennis arena and thrilled for them to be in attendance for the unveiling and entire gala."

The $18 million renovation of the Southeast Tennis and Learning Center (SETLC), a 48,000 square foot six-tennis court indoor arena in Washington, DC's Ward 8 was

The SETLC is the first facility of its kind in the nation and has become a model for other cities. The center and others inspired by it will be integral in the development of tennis in the U.S.

Sharing Christ Across Cultures

United We Stand... Divided We Fall!!

This media has called for unity and togetherness for the last decade, hoping to reach the goal of a better society.

At this time in history, it is imperative that HISPANICS, BLACKS, WHITES and all races work together to accomplish a sense of unity.

For several years, this media has called for the togetherness of all people -- WHITE, BLACK, BROWN, ETC.

As members of a civilized society, our mission must be to motivate, educate and elevate all people. WHITES, BLACKS, HISPANICS, NATIVE AMERICANS and other minorities can no longer afford to be divided. All must equally be given an opportunity to elevate themselves. So, the cry is neither BLACK nor WHITE, rather, it is for the right. Studies have revealed that it is not the Black race that dominates the welfare rolls, nor is it the Blacks with the highest percentage of social diseases. Let us not fall prey to the propaganda that Blacks alone are in need of rising from the ashes of despair. All races must improve their social and educational status.

Facing the complexities of the Twenty-First Century, our beloved country can no longer be about seclusion, separation and segregation. This country was founded on the right to be free in speech, assembly, education and religion, and on that premise the United States of America emerged into a strong country, but, the country is now threatened from within because of the spirit of division. With the percentage of Blacks and other minorities projected to dominate the workforce during the next decade, we need to start now to prepare people who can compete. If that potential workforce is denied access to education and the mainstream, how then can we expect to keep America secure, prosperous and stable? Too much is at stake. We can no longer afford to be divided. The economic, education and social pie must be shared -- not only as a matter of justice, but of necessity. While there is no strength in the division of a country, there is a mighty fortress in a country united. Does it not make good sense to strive to live together in harmony for the safety and success of us all? Our national security demands it. United we will stand, but divided, we shall ultimately fall.

Don't Let Your Thanksgiving Go Up in Flames

Rainbow International® offers advice on preventing cooking fires

Cooking brings family and friends together during the holidays. But did you know that cooking is the number one cause of home fires and home injuries? The National Fire Protection Agency says Thanksgiving Day is the peak day for home cooking fires with nearly double the number of fires reported.

To help prevent a cooking fire this holiday, consider these common fire safety tips:

- Keep an eye on what you are cooking. Avoid distractions such as TV and cell phones.
- Avoid letting kids near the stove or oven when you are cooking.
- Set things that can catch on fire, such as potholders, oven mitts, hand towels and other flammable items, a safe distance from the cooking area.
- Keep the cooking surfaces clean. Grease buildup can trigger fires.
- Never wear loose or dangling sleeved clothes when cooking.
- Always use a timer when cooking food so you will have a reminder to check it.
- If you use a turkey fryer, keep it outdoors in an open area away from all structures that could catch on fire. Follow the manufacturer's instructions.
- Test your smoke detectors once a month to see if they're working. Never remove the batteries.
- Have a fire extinguisher in the kitchen area. Be sure everyone in the household knows how to use it.
- Check to make sure all stoves, ovens, and appliances are turned off at bedtime.

In the unfortunate event you face a fire catastrophe, call in the experts, like Rainbow International®, to begin fire damage restoration as soon as authorities say the property is safe to enter. Keep Rainbow International's number - 855-774-6815 - with your other emergency contacts, and call in the professionals to start restoring your home after a fire.

Giving Thanks

BY CONGRESSWOMAN EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON

This week, as we prepare to celebrate the Thanksgiving holiday, I am continually reminded of the importance family and the mandate of being thankful. It is important to give thanks for the people in our lives, for continued prosperity and for the blessings we receive every day. This year, as I prepare to celebrate with my own family, I am thankful for the opportunity to serve the people of my district.

Today, there are nearly 750,000 people from various ethnicities, religions and socioeconomic backgrounds that make up the rich, diverse fabric of District 30. For 22 years, I have been fortunate enough to be the voice and champion of a district that has embraced its diversity and who remains committed to finding sensible, innovative solutions to big problems. I am thankful for the families who support educational opportunities for their children; for the business owners who accept social responsibility; and for the compassionate men and women who fight to ensure the safety and protection of our children and elderly. Their courage, humanity and vision for our district, city, state and nation fuel the passion with which I serve.

I am thankful for your unwavering, relentless support. In November, the people of District 30 came out to the polls with intense support. Despite the newly imposed Voter ID law in Texas aimed to disenfranchise minorities, poor and elderly voters, the men and women of District 30 exercised their right to vote with great zeal and re-elected me to the U.S. House of Representatives with 87.9 % of the vote. I am thankful for the change and resources this support helps me to secure for Dallas and the surrounding cities.

As I draw upon the spirit of Thanksgiving, I am reminded of a powerful speech by President John F. Kennedy, and would like to share these words with you: "Today, we give our thanks, most of all, for the ideals of honor and faith...for the decency of purpose, steadfastness of resolve and strength of will, for the courage and the humility...we must seek every day to emulate. As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them."

On that [Thanksgiving] day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice, and understanding among all men and nations...

Shared with the American people in great confidence on November 4th, 1963 these words still remain true as we prepare to celebrate Thanksgiving Day in 2014. On Thanksgiving Day, we gather with our loved ones to share food and blessings. This year, as I prepare to celebrate the Thanksgiving Holiday, I am more than thankful for the opportunity to serve. I continue to wish infinite blessings to you and yours.
