Frost Bank Recognized for $8.8 Million to Affordable Housing

Military history of African Americans

Tuskegee Airmen of the 332nd Fighter Group, United States Army Air Forces (USAAF), attend a briefing at Ramitelli Airfield, Italy in March 1945.

The military history of African Americans spans from the arrival of the first enslaved Africans during the colonial history of the United States to the present day. In every war fought by or within the United States, African Americans participated, including the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Mexican-American War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, the World Wars, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, the Gulf War, and the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq as well as other minor conflicts.

Frost Bank recently was honored with the 2017 CARE Award from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas, recognizing Frost's $8.8 million invested in Texas affordable housing since 1998. At left: Frost Bank Senior EVP Bill Sirakos, Frost Bank Senior VP and CRA Officer Donna Normandin, FHLB Dallas First VP and Director of Community Investment Greg Hettrick, Frost Bank VP Jacob Cavazos and FHLB Dallas President and CEO Sanjay Bhasin.

DALLAS, TEXAS, November 10, 2017 – Frost Bank, a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas (FHLB Dallas), was recently honored with FHLB Dallas' 2017 CARE Award. An acronym that stands for "Community Area Revitalization Efforts," the CARE Award recognizes Frost Bank's affordable housing achievements over the past 20 years.

"Frost Bank is committed to making a positive impact on the community through revitalization and partnerships with those who share in our mission," said Donna Normandin, senior vice president and CRA officer at Frost Bank. "Giving back is important to us. It's part of who we are as a company."

In conjunction with the award, FHLB Dallas contributed $7,500 to a community-based organization of Frost Bank's choice. After working with Houston-based nonprofit, Change Happens, for the last eight years, Frost Bank selected the organization to receive the funds because of its Hurricane Harvey relief efforts in the community.

Established in 1989, Change Happens is a 501(c)(3) that provides outreach services to Harris County. Since the inception of the partnership with Change Happens, Frost Bank has donated almost $80,000 and many volunteer hours in support of the nonprofit's mission.

Change Happens CEO and Founder, the Rev. Leslie Smith, said he was thrilled to learn of the unexpected funding, which will be used to further the organization's mission.

"At Change Happens, we work tirelessly to provide services to adults and at-risk youth in Houston with the goal of empowering those individuals to become positive and productive contributors to the community," said Rev. Smith. "The funds from Frost Bank help us further our mission, and we couldn't be more thankful."

Since 1998, Frost Bank has invested more than $8.8 million in Texas communities using FHLB Dallas' Affordable Housing Program (AHP), which assists in the purchase, construction and/or rehabilitation of owner-occupied, rental and transitional housing, as well as other grant programs offered by FHLB Dallas. These programs focus on promoting and strengthening relationships between community-based organizations, small business development, home rehab for special-needs and elderly residents and down payment and closing cost assistance for first-time homebuyers.

"Frost Bank has been a strong contributor to many of the affordable housing and economic development projects in Texas," said Sanjay K. Bhasin, president and CEO of FHLB Dallas. "Congratulations to everyone at Frost Bank on this well-deserved award. It is our distinct honor to partner with them to serve Texans in need."

FHLB Dallas provides members with grant programs targeted specifically to the needs of low- to moderate-income communities in addition to favorably priced advances (loans) and other banking services.

Robert Earl Keen's all new, expanded "REK's Fam-O-lee Back to the Country Jamboree!"

A magical performance is coming to Dallas this holiday season in the form of Robert Earl Keen's all new, expanded "REK's Fam-O-lee Back to the Country Jamboree!"

Often referred to as the Jimmy Buffet of Christmas, Robert Earl Keen channels his inner Chevy Chase while bringing Christmas Vacation to life in his own interpretation. You'll find yourself laughing for the entire 4 minutes he sings his dysfunctional, soon to be re-released single, "Merry Christmas From The Family."

In Keen's hilarious rendition of a family holiday gathering he sings about burned out Christmas lights, his sister's new boyfriend, brother Ken and all his wives along with many more of his so-called relatives that you may even recognize in your own family.

Keen is giving fans a chance to join in on the antic-slave at the House of Blues on December 29 and he's bringing along the Texas fiddle music of The Quebe Sisters, which is sure to make for a memorable family outing.

The "Fam-O-Lee Back to the Country Jamboree" brings visions of sugarplums, elves and maybe a cow or two while families bond with those closest to them at what is sure to become a favorite, non-stop laughing, holiday-tradition!

Papa John's apologizes for criticizing NFL anthem protests

(AP) - Papa John's Pizza apologized Tuesday night for comments made by CEO John Schnatter blaming sluggish pizza sales on NFL players kneeling during the national anthem.

The Louisville, Kentucky-based company is a major NFL sponsor and advertiser, and Schnatter said on an earnings call on Nov. 1 that "NFL leadership has hurt Papa John's shareholders" and that the protests "should have been nipped in the bud a year and a half ago."

The company tweeted a statement offering to "work with the players and league to find a positive way forward."

"The statements made on our earnings call were describing the factors that impact our business and we sincerely apologize to anyone that thought they were divisive," it said. "That definitely was not our intention."

"We believe in the right to protest inequality and support the players' movement to create a new platform for change. We also believe, as Americans, we should honor our anthem. There is a way to do both."

The movement was started last year by former San Francisco 49ers quarterback Colin Kaepernick, who knelt to protest what he said was police mistreatment of blacks. More players began kneeling after President Donald Trump said at an Alabama rally in September that team owners should get rid of players who protest during the anthem.

Papa John's added that it is "open to ideas from all. Except neo-Nazis." It previously has tried to distance itself from white supremacists who praised Schnatter's comments, saying it does not want those groups to buy its pizza.

The company's stock has fallen by nearly 13 percent since Schnatter's comments.

BLACK ACADEMY OF ARTS AND LETTERS WINS ITS FIRST EMMY AWARD FOR KING CONCERT SPECIAL Show Airs on CBS 11

DALLAS, TEXAS — (November 13, 2017) After four Emmy nominations from the Lone Star Emmy Awards, a division of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, The Black Academy of Arts and Letters (TBAAL) won its first television Emmy Award for the 34th Annual Black Music and the Civil Rights Movement Concert: A Tribute to Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The concert is a joint long-term partnership with KTXA 21 television, the Dallas-based CBS (11) affiliate, and featured TBAAL's 200-voice concert choir with special guest celebrities MALIK YOBA, B.SLADE TM, BILAL and ERNEST PUGH.

Taped live at the downtown Dallas Morton H. Myerson Symphony Center for the past 20 years, this dramatic music and spoken word tribute to the slain civil rights leader has starred many major award-winning celebrities such as Erykah Badu, Jennifer Holliday, Patti Austin, Peabo Bryson, Tramaine Hawkins, Fantasia, Eartha Kitt, Albertina Walker, Tanea Stewart, Tony Terry, Rahsaan Patterson, B.Slade, Lalah Hathaway, Kim Fields, Karen Clark-Sheard, Mavis Staples, Ruben Studdard, Tevin Campbell, Phil Perry, Chante Moore, CeCe Winans, Esther Rolle, Ledisi and Chrisette Michele.

"It's extremely exciting to be bestowed this honor for the artistic work we have produced and presented to the Dallas/Fort Worth metropolitan area and in several other national American markets," said Curtis King, the creator, producer and director of the live, televised concert. "This honor is a testament that hard work and persistent excellence yields a refreshing reward for everyone involved. It's an award that belongs to KTXA 21 Director/Producer James Hammond III, our 200-voice TBAAL Concert Choir, choral directors, technicians, board of directors, staff and volunteers. I am blessed to have been given the artistic vision to create it."

The Award was presented Saturday in San Antonio at the 15th Annual Lone Star Emmy Awards Show. The 34th Annual Black Music and the Civil Rights Movement Concert KTXA received the Emmy for Special Event Coverage (other than News or Sports).

CBS General Station Manager Gary Schneider said the award was a long-time coming.

"We believe in the work of Curtis King and the Academy," he said. "This concert is a major hallmark program for our station and the DFW Metroplex. In time, I see it as an annual national television special."

TBAAL Board Chair Barbara Steele said the Emmy Award comes on the heels of the 2017 Regional Theatre Tony Award that the Dallas Theater Center (DTC) received in June.

"When Curtis King told the board that the Dallas Theater Center had received the 2017 Regional Theatre Tony Award, I was so pleased that a Dallas-based arts institution had received such an honor," said Steele. "I am super excited that now two major Dallas arts institutions have received an Emmy (TBAAL) and a Tony (DTC) in one year. This speaks volumes that shows Dallas is an artistic mecca and a welcoming place for the arts."

Purchase your tickets now for the upcoming 35th Annual Black Music and the Civil Rights Movement concert, Sunday, January 14, 2018 at the Morton H. Myerson Symphony Center. Call TBAAL Box Office 214.743.2400 or Ticketmaster 800.745.3000.

Trump's assault on Barack Obama's legacy will fail

BY JESSE JACKSON
November 14, 2017

Donald Trump defines his administration as against all things Obama. Beneath the current president's insults and outrages, his lies and antics is a remarkably consistent attempt to undo his predecessor's entire legacy.

With Republicans in total control of the White House and the Congress, Trump can dismantle much of what Barack Obama accomplished, but he will ultimately fail to overturn his legacy. Obama had the right moral compass; Trump's reaction will not be sustained.

Consider the contrast:

Obama passed health care reform, enabling 20 million more people to afford health insurance. The centerpiece of his Affordable Care Act was the expansion of Medicaid to cover more than 10 million low-wage workers and their families.

Trump and Republicans still vow to repeal Obamacare. Their plan and their budgets seek harsh cuts in Medicaid and Medicare. Trump continues to invent ways to undermine Obamacare administratively. He may do damage, but he will not succeed. After Obama, Americans have come to accept that affordable health care is a right, not a privilege. In Maine last Tuesday, voters overwhelmingly voted to extend Medicaid, despite the passionate opposition of the state's Trump-lite governor. On health care, Obama was on the right side of history; Trump gets it wrong.

Obama helped create the Paris climate agreement, getting virtually every country in the world to agree to the necessity of addressing global warming. His climate policies helped accelerate the transition to sustainable energy.

Trump denies the reality of climate change, and he pulled the U.S. out of the Paris Accord and has systematically reversed Obama's policies. The damage Trump will do is incalculable, but he will fail. Even the Pentagon understands that climate change is a real and present danger. Obama was on the right side of science; Trump gets it wrong.

Obama inherited an economy that was losing 800,000 jobs a month, as financial speculation had blown up the global economy. He saved the auto industry, bailed out and tightened regulation of the banks, passed the largest stimulus plan in our history, and — with the help of the Federal Reserve — saved the economy, cutting unemployment by more than half and setting a record for consecutive months of private sector growth.

Trump is systematically deregulating the banks and corporations, and slashing vital public investment and services. He benefits from the momentum of the Obama economy, but as his plans take hold we will witness a return to bobbles and busts as the financial casino heats up. Obama saved the economy; Trump is putting it back at risk.

Obama declared that inequality had reached unsustainable extremes. He let some of the Bush tax cuts for the rich expire and imposed higher taxes on the wealthy to help pay for health care. He called for raising the minimum wage and pushed to enforce worker protections and labor laws.

Trump sides with the plutocrats. His tax plan would lower taxes on the rich, eliminate taxes on massive estates, allow investors to continue paying at lower tax rates than their secretaries, and perversely expand incentives for multinationals to move jobs and report profits in tax havens abroad. Inequality continued to get worse under Obama, but he understood the threat. Trump gets this wrong.

Obama taught us that the war on terror, like all wars, must eventually come to an end. He sought to close Guantanamo and to get the U.S. out of Iraq and Afghanistan. He resisted immense pressure to escalate in Syria and Ukraine. He signed a nuclear treaty that required Iran to dismantle its potential nuclear weapons program.

Trump campaigned against the wars, but since becoming president he has escalated across the board in Afghanistan, Syria and Iraq while embracing Saudi Arabia's massive war crimes in Yemen. He pledges to tear up the Iranian accord despite the urgings of his advisers. Obama understood the importance of law and diplomacy. Trump gets this wrong.

Obama sought to bring Americans together, across lines of race, religion and region. He built a rainbow coalition that won a majority of the popular vote twice. He celebrated the recognition of LGBTQ rights and defended voting rights.

Trump has consistently sought to drive us apart, practicing a race-bait politics that appeals to our fears. He won office despite losing the popular vote. His Justice Department turns a blind eye to efforts to suppress the vote. He gets this wrong.

Obama's administration was remarkably free of corruption. His family was a model that parents could point to across the country.

Unlike every modern president of both parties, Trump refuses to release his tax returns. His administration has been marked by scandal and conflicts of interest from day one. Agency after agency has had its mission subverted from the top.

Barack Obama was not a perfect president. He faced entrenched partisan obstruction from day one. But in stormy weather and treacherous crosswinds, his moral compass pointed us in the right direction.

Dr. Martin Luther King taught us that the "arc of the moral universe is long, but it bends toward justice." He knew, however, that justice is not inevitable. Its advance comes from the struggle, work and sacrifice of citizens of conscience. And that is why Trump's misdirection will fail — not simply because it is wrong but because Americans in large numbers are not willing to go backwards.

It is easy to lose faith. The damage that is being done at home and abroad is immense, but as the old gospel song teaches, "We've come too far, we can't turn back now."
