Michelle Obama Co-Chairs 'When We All Vote'

By Lauren Victoria Burke, NNPA

When We All Vote, a non-partisan organization inspiring voter turnout in the run up to Election Day in November, is working on a National Week of Action. Former First Lady Michelle Obama is serving as a co-chair.

"When We All Vote, we get new ideas and new energy. We get leaders that share our values" says Mrs. Obama in a new commercial running on prominent digital platforms and on radio across the U.S.

The commercial will air over the 14 days before voter registration deadlines. On September 20, When We All Vote launched a text message campaign allowing people to text WeAllVote to 97779 for voter registration information.

The 2018 cycle has been propelled by two elements: Dislike of President Donald Trump and a record number of women running for office. According to NBC News, there were 53 female Senate candidates, previous record was 40 in 2016, and 476 female House candidates, with the previous record being 298 in 2012. Among the 476 women who ran for a seat in the U.S. House, about 75 percent were Democrats.

Over 52 percent of Democratic House female candidates won their primary races. Their percentage was higher than for Democratic men or Republican women. The 2018 election cycle is expected to be a record one for female candidates. Backlash to Trump's presidency is widely seen as one of the main reasons as his disapprovals climb higher.

When We All Vote is planning a Week of Action in which volunteers will host nearly 2000 events across the U.S. The purpose of the events will be to register voters and recruit volunteers. When We All Vote previously announced that Michelle Obama will headline events during a Week of Action in Las Vegas on Sept. 23 and Miami on Sept. 28.

Along with the former First Lady, other Co-Chairs: Janelle Monae, Chris Paul, Tom Hanks and Faith Hill, will lead flagship events along with Loni Love, Keegan-Michael Key and Shonda Rhimes.

When We All Vote arrives as part of several efforts to spike voter turnout in a crucial "off-year" election at a time when voting numbers have increased dramatically when compared to the previous off-year cycle.

DPD OFFICER AMBER GUYER FIRED

DALLAS (AP) — Amber Guyger, DPD officer who fatally shot her black neighbor, Botham Jean inside his own apartment was fired Monday, the same day he was being buried in his Caribbean homeland.

Police Chief U. Renee Hall dismissed Officer Amber Guyger during a hearing Monday, according to the Police Department. Guyger is charged with manslaughter in the Sept. 6 shooting that left 26-year-old Botham Jean dead, and she was fired because of her arrest, according to the department.

The Jean family's attorneys, along with protesters, have been calling for Guyger to be fired since the shooting. In a statement, the attorneys said they see the termination as an initial victory.

"However, we are committed to seeing through the next steps of the process of a proper murder indictment, conviction and appropriate sentencing," they said in the statement.

"TRULY, TRULY, I SAY TO YOU, WHOEVER BELIEVES HAS ETERNAL LIFE."

Bill Cosby Sentenced to 3 to 10 Years in Prison, Files Notice of Appeal

By Stacy M. Brown, NNPA Newswire Contributor
@StacyBrownMedia

Bill Cosby arrived at the Montgomery County, Pennsylvania courthouse in a black SUV surrounded by his publicists and attorneys. He left in a prison van, escorted by sheriff's deputies.

His lawyers immediately filed a notice of appeal.

Judge Steven T. O'Neill sentenced the fallen comic to as many as 10 years in state prison. Cosby, 81, could be released after serving a minimum of three years.

"You have no right to it," O'Neill told Cosby's attorney Joe Green, when asked that his client remain free on bail pending appeal. "This is a serious crime," said the judge, who earlier had designated Cosby a sexual violent predator which means he'll have to undergo a lifetime of monthly counseling and report quarterly to authorities.

Because of the sexual violent predator designation, Cosby's name also will appear on a sex-offender registry sent to neighbors, schools and victims.

Additionally, after having already paid the victim in the case, Andrea Constand, $3.4 million in a civil settlement, the sexually violent predator designation can also be used against him in several defamation lawsuits that are pending against him.

Prosecutors had asked for a five- to 10-year sentence.

Cosby's spokesman Andrew Wyatt told reporters that the sentence continues the "lynching of a legacy."

"This has been the most racist and sexist trial in the history of the United States," Wyatt said. "Dr. Cosby has been one of the greatest civil rights leaders in the United States for over the last 50 years. He's also been one of the greatest educators of men and boys over the past 50 years.

"This wasn't pointed out in court to the jurors or allowed in because of the racist and sexist mass media was attacking and denouncing Dr. Cosby whenever his lawyers even hinted that racism and sexism was present."

"All three psychologists that testified against Dr. Cosby were white women who make money off of accusing Black men of being a sexual predator and it's no accident that Prosecutor Steele worked so closely with anti-Black and anti-Male activist groups who tried to extort $100 million from Dr. Cosby in 2014.

Wyatt and Cosby's wife, Camille, also pointed to an NNPA Newswire exclusive story earlier this month that revealed that tapes used to help convict Cosby were doctored.

After reading the NNPA Newswire story, Cosby hired a forensic firm in Northern Virginia to review recordings of phone calls with Cosby provided by Constand's mother, Gianna. The recordings were used as evidence in both of Cosby's trials.

However, Wyatt and Camille Cosby said the firm found that the recordings were indeed doctored.

In a statement from Camille Cosby, read by publicist Ebonee Benson on Tuesday, Cosby's wife said they also presented the findings to Montgomery County, Pennsylvania detectives who investigated Bill Cosby.

"They found that they were unable to authenticate the tapes," Camille Cosby said in her statement.

Cosby said her husband's legal team would immediately file for relief on the basis that Steele used falsified evidence to win the conviction.

"The right to a fair trial is of utmost importance," Camille Cosby said.

"The prosecutor has the responsibility to protect the innocent... Gianna Constand surreptitiously and illegally recorded a conversation with my husband, which the former District Attorney Bruce Castor said was illegal," she said.

"Steele used illegal recordings in both trials."

Wyatt called it a persecution. "I'm not saying Mr. Cosby is Jesus, but we know what this country has done to Black men for centuries," he said.

Cosby was found guilty in April of three counts of aggravated indecent assault for the drugging and sexual assault of Constand, a former Temple University employee, at his in Montgomery County more than 14 years ago.

He was the first celebrity to be criminally convicted of sexual abuse since the start of the #MeToo movement, the national movement that has resulted in numerous celebrities and powerful individuals, like former NBC "Today" host Matt Lauer, movie mogul Harvey Weinstein, and many others, losing their careers.

President Donald Trump has also been accused of sexual misconduct and his Supreme Court pick, Brett Kavanaugh is set to face at least one of his accusers when he appears before a Senate committee on Thursday.

Cosby, who declined to address the court during sentencing and also didn't testify during either of his trials, has vowed to continue to fight his conviction.

His attorneys as well as many other legal experts have said there are numerous grounds for a higher court to consider overthrowing the verdicts against him.

Among O'Neill's rulings that Cosby's team believe are questionable is the contentious relationship the judge has had with former District Attorney Bruce Castor, who previously declined to file charges against Cosby because he said Constand wasn't credible and there wasn't evidence to support a prosecution.

Castor also made an agreement with Cosby in which the actor would waive his Fifth Amendment right and sit for a civil deposition. The then-District Attorney agreed that whatever Cosby said in the deposition would be sealed and could never be used to prosecute him.

Camille Cosby recently filed a request for a full investigation into O'Neill with the Pennsylvania Judicial Conduct Board at the state's capitol in Harrisburg.

"In light of Judge O'Neill's continuing unethical conduct, I have retained a former prosecutor based in Harrisburg, Brian W. Perry, to facilitate my efforts to uncover the truth regarding the long-standing and ongoing feud between Castor and the judge," Camille Cosby said in a statement last week.

"Mr. Perry will provide the Judicial Conduct Board with recent written communications from Mr. Castor that contradict the judge's claim that there is no grudge," Camille Cosby said.

"For example, an email from Mr. Castor references Judge O'Neill as 'A judge with an enormous potential bias [who] did not disclose that possible bias to the lawyers to give them the option to seek a new judge,'" she said, specifically referencing an email Castor sent to the Washington Informer on March 27th.

"One week prior to my request for investigation, Bill Cosby filed a motion demanding that the judge provide a full accounting of his longstanding feud with and bias against Bruce Castor, the former DA of Montgomery County.

"The motion explained that Mr. Cosby retained a former FBI agent to investigate the relationship of Messrs. Castor and O'Neill after recently being tipped off about their feud in an unsourced tabloid [Radar Online] article. The former agent discovered that, in 1999, when Messrs. O'Neill and Castor were running against each other to become DA, Mr. Castor ordered a female prosecutor whom Mr. O'Neill had dated to visibly support Mr. Castor during a key debate."

After Bill Cosby was led away in handcuffs on Tuesday, Wyatt said his boss was holding up well.

"Bill Cosby is fine. They prosecuted Jesus, and look what happened to him," Wyatt said. "[Cosby] believes in God, and he will be OK."

What can I eat if I have diabetes?

If you have diabetes, you may have trouble knowing what to eat. Many people think that having diabetes means you have to eat special foods. In reality, you can make a big difference in your health based on your food choices and how much you eat.

Planning your meals will help you control your blood sugar. It's important that you eat three planned meals a day; don't skip meals. Eat the same amount of food at each meal and space them out every four to five hours.

Below are some tips to help you with meal planning for sugar (diabetes) control:

- The food that is good for you is good for your whole family
- Your meal plan is made up of regular foods
- You do not need "special or diabetic foods"
- Time your meals with your diabetes medicines
- Eat at least three meals a day. Do not miss a meal
- Try to eat at the same time each day

Remember that the foods you eat will make a difference in your blood sugar. Some foods raise your blood sugar more than others. For example, carbohydrate foods such as fruit and milk raise your blood sugar the most. Skipping meals or eating too little food may make your blood sugar go too low. Eating too much at meals or snacks may make your blood sugar go too high.

Eating healthy when you have diabetes doesn't have to be difficult. Below are a few easy tips to help you eat healthier:

- Eat different types of vegetables each day
- Work with your diabetes team to plan a snack, if needed
- Drink eight glasses of water a day
- Choose to eat more baked, boiled, broiled or grilled food for meals
- Measure your food after cooking

Talk to your doctor about your diet and how you can keep your blood sugar under control by eating healthier. For more tips and helpful ideas on how to keep your diabetes under control, visit www.ParklandDiabetes.com.

Nike's Marketing Strikes a Chord Without Hurting Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Nike caused an uproar earlier this month with its ad featuring former NFL quarterback Colin Kaepernick that debuted just as the football season was about to begin. But the shoe maker's stock is up and sales have been steady.

The furor seems to have largely died down and the company reported an earnings beat on Tuesday.

While purpose-driven marketing can be a land mine for some companies, others like Nike have found it a useful way to appeal to their core demographic and differentiate themselves in an increasingly polarized political landscape.

"I don't think it was a big gamble. Historically, Nike has always done this so it was no shock," said Antonio S. Williams, who teaches sports marketing at Indiana University. "They're the king of emotional marketing so everything they do, they do it with emotion."

For the quarter ended Aug. 31, Nike's net income rose 15 percent to $1.09 billion, or 67 cents per share, from $950 million, or 57 cents per share in the prior-year quarter. Analysts expected 63 cents per share. Revenue rose 10 percent to $9.95 billion, edging past analyst expectations of $9.93 billion, according to FactSet.

The results don't have anything to do with the Kaepernick ad, which came out shortly after the quarter ended. Instead, the quarter benefited from the FIFA World Cup of soccer that showcased many players and teams wearing its clothing and shoes, as well as the "athleisure" trend that continues to be strong.

Kevin Hart makes surprise visit to Booker T. Washington High School

DALLAS — Juniors and seniors at Booker T. Washington for the Performing and Visual Arts got a shock on Wednesday, Sept. 12.

Dr. Scott Rudes, who has served as the school's principal the past five years, announced he had an opportunity too good to pass up and was resigning. With the district's help, he said, an interim principal had been found: actor Kevin Hart.

The students erupted with excitement — understanding Rudes' ruse — to welcome the actor and comedian. For his part, Hart promised chicken nuggets every day, 15-minute school days that start at noon and then said he'd bring school uniforms to the campus. That's when Rudes intervened and took back his badge, walkie talkie and desk nameplate. Modifying the arts school's discipline-specific and sometimes expressive dress code was apparently the last straw.

Hart, along with movie producer Will Packer, encouraged students who aspire to find show-biz success to keep striving, work hard and continue believing in themselves. "You are the only one who knows your talent," Hart said.

When starting out in the business, he said, there are a lot of people along the way who will say no. "Keep looking for that 'yes,'" Hart challenged students. "You are the future of creativity. You guys are next up."
